From the Camp before Stralsund, August 31.

THERE has been terrible Storms of late with excessive Rains, which has not only retarded the Enterprize upon Rugen and the Arrival of the Artillery in the Camp, but has also put us in pain for the Danish Fleet. In the mean time Admiral Scheefeldt, who after having assisted in the great Council of War, is returned on board his Fleet, sends Word that his Ships have received no Damage, but that a Swedish Privateer was driven ashore by the Storm on the Coast under Penamund, which he will seize. As soon as the Weather is a little settled, the same Vice-Admiral will put in Execution the Attack upon Rugen and Rugen, the Troops to be employed in it in two Bodies being already appointed. The Prince of Anhalt will Command the Prussians, and General Dewitz the Danes; the former having prayed the King to employ him in that important Enterprize. As soon as that Descent is made, we shall bombard Stralsund, for which all things are ready. There has been a rude Encounter between the Prussians and the Troops of the Duke of Mecklenburg, wherein above 50 Men were killed: Which happened upon Occasion of a Visit which a Captain with 80 Men would make at the Town of Butzow, as he had done at Parchen, to see if there were not some of the King's Soldiers hid there that had deserted and lifted themselves under the Duke of Mecklenburg; and the Town having Orders to oppose him, he sent for Succours from the Camp before Wismar, which occasioned this Effusion of Blood. The said Captain has brought a Colonel and some Soldiers of the Duke of Mecklenburg's Prisoners to the Camp. The King of Prussia lays this Matter much to Heart, and has written a sharp Letter to the Duke about it. The Prince of Kurakin is arrived here. 'Tis said that since the Hussar Captain and eight Launciers deserted to us, the King of Sweden has transported all the rest of that Body to the Island of Rugen.

Copenhagen, Sept. 3. Some Days ago the Holstein Nobility assembled at Kiel, to deliberate upon the Contributions which the Danish Commissioners demand of them. And they have been extremely well satisfied to understand that his said Majesty has moderated the Contribution of 60000 to 60000 Tuns of Oats: But the Tax imposed upon the Towns and Villages, of 18 Crowns for every Plough, remains firm and unalterable. The Deum has been sung and the Cannon on our Ramparts fired for the Victory obtained over the Swedes. The Fleet performed the same while they lay in the King's Bay. They are since put to Sea, being 21 Ships of the Line, and abundantly provided with Ammunition Provisions and Men, inasmuch that they desire nothing more than to engage in another Action, if the Swedes will give them an Opportunity. We are assured that the Czar's Fleet will join ours in a little time. The Swedes work Night and Day in repairing their Fleet.

Hague, Sept. 6. Last Week a Conference was held between the Foreign Ministers of the Empire that are here, wherein a certain Minister having communicated the Informations his Master had received of the Preparations which the French continue to make at Deux Ponts, for making a Diversion in the Empire in favour of the King of Sweden, which even their Ministers in some Foreign Courts do not conceal, he thereupon represented the Necessity there is of assembling in the Empire without delay as many Troops as may be proper for preserving the Peace: That Proposition was seconded indeed by the Ministers of those Princes whose Countries he most exposed; but the greatest Part remonstrated, that it would be little help to form an Army of Neutrality now that the Season is so far advanced that they cannot be assembled before the time that Troops are usually sent into Winter Quarters: So that the Proposition was rejected by plurality of Voices.

From the Amsterdam Courant, dated Sept. 7.
Hague, Sept. 5. The Ambassador of France has complimented Baron Heems, the Emperor's Envoy, (who returned hither from Germany the 3d Instant) upon the Empress's being with Child. This Day several Ministers were with that Baron. 'Tis supposed that Don Louis d'Aconia will by the End of this Month go to the British Court, but that the Count de Tarouca will tarry here all the Winter. This Day the Tickets in the Dutch Lottery began to be drawn, and about Noon the highest Prize of 100000 Guilders came up!

London, September 2.

Yesterday arrived two Mails from Flanders.

From the Antwerp Courant, dated Sept. 6.

Lisle, Sept. 3. The Melancholy News of the Death of the most Christian King, has caused an Alteration in all the good and well-meaning Subjects in this City that is not to be expressed.
